Formiteca

FORMITECA is an Ecuadorian company founded in 1980. For more than thirty seven years, it has specialized in the manufacturing of modular carpentry, focusing on the production of custom interior & exterior doors for residential and office buildings.

When you build or buy a property, you deserve the best product. It is not a matter of budget. Doors have to be everlasting. That is why we have dedicated two generations developing a world class product, aimed to satisfy your requirements and needs.

Founder Architect Diego Recalde, who studied at the University of Miami, Florida, came back to his hometown of Quito- Ecuador with the idea to produce interior doors for the Ecuadorian construction industry. During all these years, the company has positioned itself as a leader in the market, by working with the most important construction companies in the country. The most representative buildings, hotels chains, designers, and architects in Ecuador all use FORMITECA doors.

We are a company that has over 100 employees committed to produce outstanding products. The materials we use for our doors are all grown from sustainable forests with FSC certifications, among others.

Our final products also include the best accessories available on the market to complement our doors.

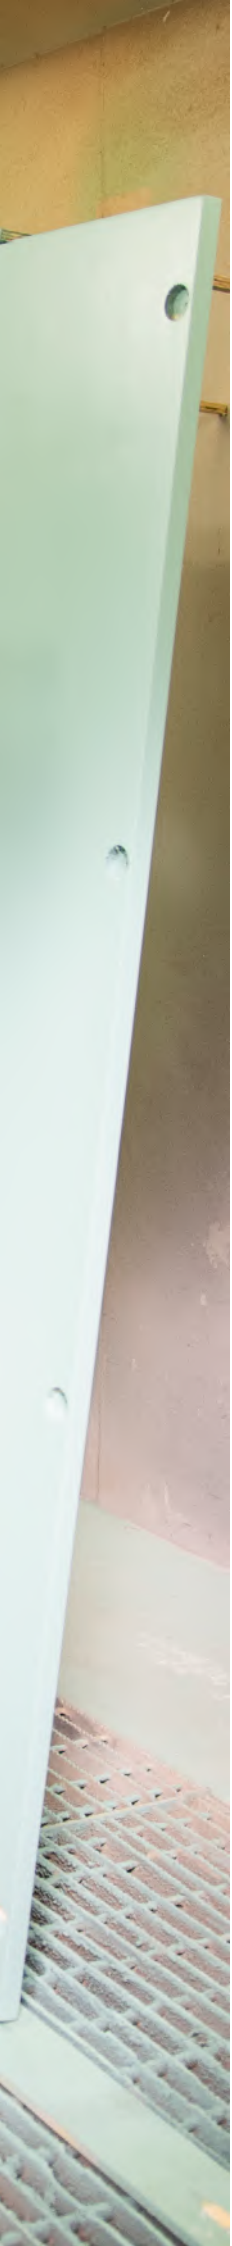

When you purchase a FORMITECA door, you will not only have a product of excellent quality, but you will have a partner that will provide you custom design, advice and support in all your needs.

Sincerely,

The Formiteca Team
